

As I see my son finishing his 8th grade year and preparing to graduate I can't help but feel proud yet saddened. St. Peter's has not merely been a school, a place for our children to grow intellectually, but an extended family. A family that celebrates each individual child's successes, whether small or grand. One that loves our children while they are doing well and just as importantly, provides the extra attention and guidance when needed. A family that prays for you and with you.

Over the last seven years I have enjoyed seeing all our children grow, achieve, and be cared for (not just taught) by the teachers, staff and other parents of St. Peter's. Looking back at these precious years, what I say unequivocally is that St. Peter's is a blessing! Although the time is approaching for us to leave the school, St. Peter's will forever remain our extended family. The memories will be lifelong - the impacts spanning a lifetime.
